Literature Genres

There are main categories in reading for specific types of books. Each main category, or genre, has other kinds of writing, or subgenres, that fit within that style of writing. Notice that some genres can have the same subgenres as other categories. For example, a Realistic Fiction book could be a mystery, while another mystery could be set in the past, making it also Historical Fiction.